

Iris — The Hub & Starting Point

The front door to the whole suite: what every app is for, where the data comes from, and step-by-step guides for getting started.

Everything, with a way in

Iris lists every app in the suite with a launch link, and points to the data sources behind them — so a newcomer can see what exists and what each thing is for.

- A visual directory of all the apps, each with a launch link.
- The data sources behind the suite — what each one provides.
- A read-only portfolio overview, live, as a quick orientation.

The training manual

Iris is also where getting started is explained — step-by-step guides for setting up and using the AI tools, so a new joiner isn't left to work it out alone.

- Beginner guides for getting set up.
- First-conversation and prompt walkthroughs.
- The single best place to point someone new.

Open Iris

Iris has just appeared in your sidebar — open it there whenever you want the map of the whole suite or a hand getting started.

